Catarrh
IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.
"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.
"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Advice for Farmers.

SECRETARY RUSK TALKS ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION.

Secretary Rusk, of the Department of Agriculture, is preparing an address to the farmers of the country in which he will endeavor to explain how the present depression in agriculture can be remedied. In enumerating the causes of the depression he says: "On many farms, I regret to say, we find a depreciation of the productive power of the land due to careless culture. We find a want too often of business-like methods, due to the fact that in earlier times business training was not regarded as an essential preparation for the farmer's work, whereas to-day, with altered conditions, when every penny and, I may say every moment of time has to be profitably accounted for, and in the face of world-wide competition, a successful farmer must be as well trained and careful in business as the store-keeper and his equal in intelligence and general education. Nor are the important questions of supply and demand and of market prices studied with the vigilance which characterizes the methods of our merchants and manufacturers. These last, moreover, have the advantage of transacting their business in immediate proximity to trade centers, where the widest information in reference thereto is readily obtainable. Our farmer's organizations are wisely seeking to supplement this want for the farmer; the agricultural press is earnestly working in the same direction and one of the most important duties devolving upon this Department consists in gathering and promptly distributing reliable information on all those subjects which are essentially interesting to the farmer. It remains for him to avail himself of the information thus supplied as his chief protection not only against over supply of certain products but against possible overreaching on the part of purchasers. The farmer must look with suspicion upon any attempts to abridge the source of his information. His advantage will always be in the fullest knowledge of the facts. He must carefully study the character and quality of his products rather than mere quantity, and always bear in mind that, whether prices are high or low, it is always the best goods at the best obtainable prices that are the most readily sold. Many of our farmers have been land-greedy and find themselves the owners of more land than they can properly care for in view of the comparatively high price of labor in the rural districts, and in view of the fact that but a small portion of mankind, comparatively, can profitably control the labor of others. The prudent farmer will limit his efforts to that which he can efficiently perform. Again, more attention must be given, especially on our Western farms, to the raising by the farmer for his own use of everything that may be utilized by himself and household as far as soil and climate will permit."

The Secretary then discusses at length the question of farm mortgages, transportation, the middle man, gambling in farm products and combinations to control the market and goes on to say: "I now come to the consideration of one of the gravest causes in my opinion of the present agricultural depression, but which I am happy to state can be effectually and directly dealt with through National legislation. Few people realize that our imports of agricultural products, estimated at prices paid by the consumers, are about equal to our agricultural exports estimated at prices paid to the farmer, yet such is the case. Our imports of products sold in competition with those actually produced on our own soil amount to nearly $115,000,000, and as much more could be produced on our own soil under favorable conditions. Growing a surplus of wheat, that surplus, whose price is forced down by the competition of Russia and India, regulates the price of the entire crop. The product of our vast cornfields, for which a comparatively insignificant foreign demand exists, must be utilized largely by the farmer for the raising of cattle and hogs. The foreign market for live cattle which exists in Great Britain is so hampered by the oppressive regulations requiring slaughter at point of landing as to exercise little or no beneficial influence in the price of his product, while the obstructive measures adopted by several of the Continental countries in regard to American pork has reduced the exports of that product since 1881 over 40 per cent. annually. Under such circumstances there can be but one cause assignable for neglect by American farmers to turn their attention to other crops in the line of such agricultural products as we now import, and that is that in this they would meet an even more overwhelming and disastrous competition than they are now confronted with in the raising of cereals and live stock. Obviously then, the only course possible to enlightened statesmanship is to assure to the farmer adequate protection in the diversification of his crops and the production of a larger proportion of the articles which we now import.

These may be summarized as follows, the figures given being for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, and the values those at the ports of export:

Sugar and molasses, $93,301,894,

Animals and their products, except wool, $42,263,014.

Fibres, animal and vegetable, $59,453,936.

Miscellaneous, including bread-stuffs, fruits, hay, hops, oils, rice, seed, tobacco, vegetables and wines, &c., $71,254,894.

For obvious reasons I omit any reference here to the ninety millions expended for tea, coffee and cocoa, but omitting those we have still the enormous sum of $266,273,738, imports of agricultural products, the far greater part of which, amounting probably to not less than two-hundred and forty or two hundred and fifty millions, could with proper management be produced on our own soil. The establishment of our agricultural experiment-stations, the energetic research by the Department of Agriculture into the resources of the different sections of this country, investigation of their soils and climate and the application in general of scientific principles to agriculture, all combining make this assurance doubly sure; provided always that this diversification be encouraged and fostered by the application of the principle of protection to the developement of new industries on the farm. It is simply the extension to our agriculture of the protection so beneficially extended in the past to our manufacturing industries. One glance at the comparative rates of duties levied upon agricultural as compared with other products, one glance at the free list, the greater portion of which consists of agricultural products either grown or which could be grown upon our soil, and a comparison of these figures with the average rate of duty levied upon manufactured articles ought to be sufficient to silence forever any opposition to the demand I have made on behalf of the American farmer in my annual report, namely, that by a wise application of our admirable protective system all the benefits of our home market can be secured to him for everything he may be able to produce. It seems to me that our system of taxation demands improvement in certain directions. The cost of supporting the Government needs to be more equitably adjusted among the different classes of our people. At present in many States the burden of local taxation presses heavily upon farm property, its very nature rendering it easily assessable. Every corporation created by the State, and to which special privileges are granted either by State, county or incorporated village or city, should be taxed in proportion to its earnings, and in all ways the principal of taxation should be to place the burden of maintaining the government, t whether State, municipal or National, upon the luxuries and comforts which the wealthy enjoy, and to reduce it to a minimum in its application to the hardly earned property of the poor man.

For Three Dollars.

"How many silk hats do you get in the course of a season, anyhow!" asked one clerk of another in the office of a big insurance company the other day as he picked up his associate's shiny "stove pipe" and glanced inside. "Here's an imported hat from Paris, if the stamp don't lie; two or three weeks ago you had a London hat and shortly before that you were sporting one of the fashionable makes here. You must spend half of your salary on hats."

The fellow clerk smiled and looked about him for a moment. "Will you keep mum if I let you into a good thing"? he asked and the promise was quickly given.

"Well I lost a silk hat bet on the election and one day I ruefully put away $8 and suggested to my successful friend that we go over on Broadway and get that hat. "Broadway!" said he. "Not much. You just come with me." So he marched me up to Chatham street, into a narrow doorway in a rickety old building, up a dark flight of stairs and ushered me into a dingy loft. Great heaps of high hats ran up to the ceiling along one side of the room and the other side was filled with derbys. The hats in the heap were tough enough looking, but there were shelves of silk hats that were just as shiny and as tony looking as any you ever saw in a Broadway window.

"A number of men stripped to their under shirts perspired as they worked away on hats in all stages of developement, for a real hot stove in the centre of the room kept the temperature pretty high. My friend had evidently been there before, and was cordially greeted by one of the men who stepped forward.

"This gentlemen wants to buy me a silk hat,' he explained, and in two minutes he was fitted with a dandy-looking bit of head gear, the lining stamped with a very English looking trade mark, with a lion and a shield and that sort of thing, surrounded by the handsomely-engraved name of a firm and the address in Piccadilly. I don't know whether there is any such firm in existence, but what's the odds! That hat was just as glossy as any you ever saw on Fifth avenue, and I rather envied my friend as I asked the man how much I should pay.

"Three dollars,' said he.

"Well I was prepared to find the price lower than on Broadway. I thought $6, or possibly $5, would be the figure. But $3 knocked me silly. Without asking any questions I said: 'Let me have one at the same figure,' and there I was with two elegant silk hats instead of one and $2 to the good.

"My friend explained the mystery to me after we left the place. It seems that the majority of the 'bloods' around the town, after wearing their expensive head gear for a brief period, which does them very little harm except as to the lining, leave them with the fashionable dealers. The projector of the industry we had just observed has an arrangement with these men to purchase all the hats that are turned in to them at fifty cents apiece. It doesn't cost him much more than fifty cents more to put them in first rate shape again, so you see he can make a nice thing out of them at $3.

"But here's a further wrinkle in the thing. You don't need to spend as much as $3 even when you want a 'new' silk hat. These Chatham street folks are quite accommodating, by the way, and urge you to come in and have your $3 hat ironed up whenever it gets mussed free of cost. I had mine ironed a couple of times, and one day after getting it thoroughly soaked and demoralized in a rain storm I called again. I had had it then more than six weeks. 'Suppose you give me this hat and a dollar,' suggested the proprietor, 'and we'll give you a brand new one.' I closed the bargain right off and walked out with that elegant hat of London make that you were speaking of. Oh I tell you, there are ways of being nobby without being extravagant in this town if a fellow can only find them out."

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of healthgiving, blood purifying and appetite restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

Report of County Schools.

J. S. GRIMES, SUPERINTENDENT.

While the evidences of improvements in all the districts are not what might be desired, they are plainly discernible even in the most backward districts.

New school houses were built in the following townships: Greenwood, one Mt. Pleasant, one; Orange, one, and Sugarloaf one.

A new school house in Bloomsburg, for the grammar and high school, costing about twenty-five thousand dollars, is now being erected, and will be ready for occupancy by September 1.

Quite a number of maps, charts, etc, have been added to the schools.

Many of the small pupils suffer from the heat of the stove near which they sit. The stove ought to be encased in tin jackets.

Every school house should have two separate and distinct out buildings, which should be entirely separate each from the other, and the approaches to which should likewise be separated by a substantial partition at least seven feet in height.

Townships having two terms of school cannot expect to secure normal graduates as teachers who do not have their second degree. Two years (of not less than the minimum term) of successful teaching is necessary to secure the second or permanent diploma.

Bloomsburg, Catawissa and Centralia added quite a number of valuable books to their public school libraries. A number of teachers in other districts started libraries from money secured from evening entertainments.

Horace Mann said, "Had I the power I would scatter libraries over the land as a sower sows the seed."

It is hoped that before long every school house in Pennsylvania will, like every school house in California, have its school library, that the pupils will have proper school grounds, comfortable school houses properly supplied with aparatus, a proper school term and good instruction.

Daniel Webster when asked what was the greatest thought of his life said, "My individual responsibility to God." A great minister of education in Prussia made this striking observation, "I hold myself personally responsible to Almighty God for the advancement of the educational interest of the kingdom." Teachers and directors, we may very properly adopt this observation, and if we will and keep it in mind as we ought, the responsibility will be well met and the result will reflect credit upon us.

The normal school is in a very prosperous condition. Principal Waller is one of the most popular instructors that I ever knew.

The entire expenses—janitor, hall, lecturers, instructors, etc., of my predecessor's last institute were one hundred and seventy-eight dollars and fifty cents. The receipts from the evening lectures of my first institute were sixty dollars and seventy-five cents. The receipts of the last institute were ten hundred and twenty eight dollars and seventy cents.

Great interest has been manifested in these educational meetings, and they have accomplished much good, not only in the improved methods presented, but in creating more interest and enthusiasm in educational work. The schools have improved fully as much as the institute.

Nearly every Saturday from the first of December until the close of the schools in the rural district, I was engaged in holding local institutes, which were well attended. Hon. Henry Houck lectured at the Orangeville and Centralia institutes, Prof. Perinn, of Bucknell University, at the Catawissa institute, and we also had a number of other distinguished lecturers and instructors.

The following were among the lecturers and instructors at the county institute: Hon. E. E. Higbee, Profs. Neff, Noetling, Cope, Albert, Monroe, Frye, Miss Miller, Miss Guie, Miss McClintock, Mrs. Lockwood, Drs. Waller, Willits and Talmage.

Bloomsburg, Berwick, Centralia and Catawissa have a regular course of study, and all except one send out a number of graduates each year.

The alumni association of the Berwick high school now numbers about fifty.

The closing exercises of the schools named were well attended and the exercises were exceedingly interesting.

The directors are, as a rule, representative men and look carefully after the business interests of the schools.

Thirty seven of our teachers were educated in our public schools; fifty-six attended an academy; one hundred and six, normal schools; nine, college; and fifty-six are graduates of the normal school.

We have in this county a number of private schools, two academies and a normal school and yet competent teachers are in demand. A number of our schools were not supplied with teachers until January. The grade year by year has been raised, and in consequence many have been rejected. All our teachers have studied the science and art of teaching, and nearly all are regular readers of educational journals.

Gypsies Who Work.

The kair rajahs, or town gypsies of Spain, who are always held in the greatest contempt by members of roving bands, are now in Spain, developing aptitude for labor in many of the lowly callings of the town. The street harpists, the public guitar players, she with the tambourine or castanets, are gypsies. The ballet have them.

Those who travel from door to door selling geugaws and relics are gypsies. the jockeys at horse markets, every tinker in Spain, many of the cocheros and footmen, the rat catcher, the bird trainer and many of the sellers of sweets, the dulceros, are gypsies. The "show-gypsies," of Granada and Seville, thousands in number, are genuine members of the race, but are held in greater loathing by the better classes of their own race than by the Spaniards themselves.

Another vocation, always most popular in this country, has attracted the attention of Spanish gypsies. There are thousands, all told, engaged in various capacities about the hundreds of bull rings of Spain. They are the expertest known chulos, banderilleros, picadors, and even matadors and espadas, of the present day.

The Weather For May.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, in his Word and Works, has the following weather predictions for May:

The distance originating the last of April will reach its climax about the 1st and 2d of May. It will be very warm between April 29th and May 4th not covering the whole country at the same time, of course, but starting in the west and causing a high temperature, by turns, over the whole continent in its progress to the East. Storms of much energy will result after the same progressive order, with a very cool wave following in their wake, and reaching the Atlantic about the night of May 3d. The reactionary movements will be central on the 6th, touching the 5th and 7th in their Eastward progress with rising high temperature and storms. The regular fall of temperature will follow, in all probability reaching the frost line in the North about 6th, 7th or 8th.

The second marked storm period for May is from the 10th or 15th. Mercury and "Vulcan" are both central on the 12th. The equinox of Mars reaching forward from the 26th, has come upon the field, and the moon's last quarter is on the forenoon of the 11th. These factors, combined with the fact that we have not yet passed out of the Jovan period, unless there are neutralizing forces in the combination unknown to us, indicate storms of very great energy about the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th. Within the limits here given, dangerous storms are more than liable to cross the country, jeopardizing property and lives. Should such arise there will be timely tokens of the approach, and ample time for all proper and prudent self-defence, to those who count the subject of sufficient importance to watch. Of course the usual cool wave will follow the storms—this time a full-grown one—gradually surrounding its grip for the reactionary storms on and next to the 18th. There will be good reasons for watchfulness, when clouds appear about the 18th and 19th. Very cool nights will follow.

The last regular storm period for the month will be from the 22d to 26th. There is much tendency to an aggravated atmospheric condition, at times, when the moon is at her first quarter, which falls on the 26th, with the equinox of Mars. Hence this period will concentrate its force on its last days, or will be prolonged beyond its normal time, in continued rains up to the reactionary movements on and about the 29th.

The outlook for May is that there will be heavy and general rain falls, with much cool weather, rising into abnormally high temperatures during the passage of storm centers on and about the danger days. Earthquake phenomena will result about the same times, the most probable being about the 18th and 19th.

The Pocket Conferree Fraud.

About this time in each year that brings Congressional elections around, small politicians do a thriving trade in pocket conferrees. A Congressional district that contains two or more counties, is next to certain to have a candidate who presents and presses himself in every county. He may be, and often is, utterly unfitted for the place, and would not be seriously thought of as a candidate if there was any probability of his county winning the county nomination; but good men won't trade in pocket conferrees, and little men and blatant knaves often get the field to them selves in their own counties simply because of the hopelessness of the movement.

But these petty pocket conferree traders understand their vocation better than do the people whose authority they barter in. They force the party of their county to give them a recommendation for Congress, either with power to select their own conferrees or they are permitted to dictate their conferrees to the local convention. Thus equipped with a county to trade on, they play—first to get the nomination that nobody wants for them, it trickery and confusion shall happen to favor them, and second, to sell out for the highest price in cash or approved political obligations. Such is the game of the small politican who plays the pocket conferree fraud.

Both parties in the State nave suffered incalculable disturbance and frequent defeats solely because of the petty pocket conferree trader. We have known Congressional candidates to scoop in pocket conferrees and sell them out for a position in the document cellar in Washington. A recent removal of a gallant soldier from an interior post office before the expiration of his term was enforced by a Congressman who obtained his nomination by trading the post office to a candidate in the same district for his pocket conferrees: and there are very many illustrations of serious and long party complications resulting from the sale or trade of the petty owners of county pocket conferrees.

All parties should take a bold stand against this demoralizing speculation in pocket conferrees by small local politicians. In no instance should any party ever give to a candidate the control of county conferrees. If the people really desire the nomination of a local candidate, reputable and competent conferrees should be chosen to represent them in an honest effort to attain that end; but when conferrees must choose from other candidates, their votes should not be a matter of barter by their local candidate nor should they be subject to his direction. Such power, even when not exercised corruptly, is likely to be employed to gratify the resentments of the defeated local candidate, and the party that thus licensed him is often made to suffer for its generous confidence. Let all parties take a resolute stand against the pocket conferree fraud, and they will surley elevate the standard of their local politics and avert many party wrecks.—Times.

Communion Wine.

Mr. Alfred Speer, the celebrated wine grower of New Jersey preserves the unfermented Juice of the grape for Sacramental use. It has been adopted, and its use sanctioned by the prominent divines of this country. It is also used by Invalids with remarkable good effect. For sale by druggists.

Artificial Light.

Of the minor illuminats we have had in the course of the last century, alcohol, naphtha, benzine, camphene and gasoline may be mentioned.

In 1708 a Frenchman discovered the process by which water-gas was made. In 1875 Professor Lowe established the first works in the United States.

Natural gas has been known and extensively used in China and other parts in Asia for many centuries, and history tells us of a natural gas well in France in the time of Julius Cæsar. It was first discovered in the United States near Pittsburg, about fifty years ago, but it is only of late years that it has been extensively utilized.

Petroleum has been known since the dawn of history. For a number of years it was known to the Indians and early settlers as Seneca oil, and used as a medicine, chiefly as a liniment.

When prehistoric man discovered that oil would burn, and, by means of wick, a light could be had, he must have thought the perfection of light was obtained. Yet what a wretched light it was! Put a lamp-wick in a cup of lard-oil, set fire to one end and note the result.

The use of whale oil originated with the Norwegians, and as early as 1860 the Dutch had 200 vessels in the business of catching whales. As late as 1858 the Americans had 600 vessels engaged in the fishery.

Gas then began to effectually displace whale oil. In 1807 a number of London streets were lighted with gas, and about ten years later (1816) it was introduced into this country, but for some years it made slow progress in public favor. The first really successful plant was erected in Boston, in 1822.

The first systematic boring for petroleum began about 1857 to 1859, and in a few years the product increased enormously. At present the yearly output is between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 of barrels, and new fields are constantly being opened. Russia has a great oil-field in Transcaucasia near Baku.

Away back let us say, in the Stone Age, it must have been dreadfully dull after sunset. To be sure, most people went to bed at dark in those days; there were no books to read, visits to make or places of amusement to attend, but all the same there must have been occasions when a man felt like sitting up after dark. If he did, he sat by a camp-fire that scorched his face and blistered his eyes, or illumined the darkness by the light of a torch—a smoky, bad smelling torch. Any one who has hunted by torch-light knows what an apology for a light it is.

Palestine Explorations.

A REPORT THAT THE PROPHET ISAIAH'S TOMB MAY BE FOUND.

The quarterly statement of the Palestine Exploration Fund, which has just been issued, although it does not record any extraordinary discovery, yet describes much interesting work that is in progress. Two cisterns have been found near the Damascus gate, the smaller of which would contain about 3,000 skins of water. It is entirely hewn in the rock, and before it was made into a cistern was rock-cut Jewish tombs. In the rock ceiling is a square 13 by 13 feet very nicely worked, with a kind of cornice around it exactly as in the tombs of the kings.

By the excavations made on the eastern brow of Zion it has been found that there were in ancient times caves and dwellings excavated in the rock, which in later times were converted into cisterns. Herr Schick describes a church which has been discovered in the village of Silwan, which has been hewn in the rock and which contains a Greek inscription in which the name of the Prophet Isaiah is mentioned. Herr Schick thinks it probable that Isaiah's tomb may be under this chapel and hopes by further digging to find an entrance to the cave which is under the rocky court and is at present full of earth, and to discover rock-cut tombs. He thinks that the rock-cut chambers of the church were Jewish tombs before the Christian era and that afterward they were converted into chapels by the Christians.

Facing A Deficiency.

President Harrison, according to one of his faithful organs, "has become alarmed on account of the many and large appropriations for public buildings and other purposes." It is intimated that he may "feel compelled to interpose official objections to excessive appropriations."

This is what a Democratic President did, and for doing which he was roundly abused by the Republican orators and organs. Can it be possible that Benjamin Harrison is to imitate his predecessor and interpose his veto to prevent the execution of his party's policy to promote prosperity and make every body happy by distributing the Surplus among the people? It is incredible.

In his letter of acceptance Mr. Harrison sneered at the Democrats for having "magnified and nursed the Surplus." The Republicans pursued the opposite policy. They have diminished and mortgaged the Surplus. And it is too late for the president to stop the "excessive liberality" even if he were disposed to do it.

That there is reason for the President's alarm is obvious. By his organ's own showing the revnues of the Government will be cut down to $314,000,000 "if the pending Tariff bill or any other of similiar character" is to be passed. The ordinary expenditures for the next fiscal year are estimated by Secretary Windom at $292,000,000, besides $49,000,000 for the Sinking Fund. This would involve a deficiency of $27,000,000. But if the bills now before Congress and to which the party is pledged should pass "the aggregate for the year would exceed $146,000,000." On this basis the deficiency would be $132,000,000.

The Republican party found a Surplus and is facing a Deficiency. It is no wonder that, under pretense of reducing the revenue, it has reported a bill increasing the taxes in twelve of the thirteen schedules.—World.

What He Died of.

"I don't know what to make of my husband," said a young wife tearfully, "he begs me not to cook anything, but allow our trained cook to prepare the meals.

"My husband was different," said a lady in deep mourning, "he was emphatic in his orders that the food should always be prepared by my hands."

"And your husband—where is he now?"

"He is dead."

There is only only one letter in a man's alphabet and that is "I" only one in a girl's and that is "O" only one in a married woman's and that is "U."

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1890.

CANDIDATES.

The following is a list of candidates for County offices to be voted for at the delegate election held Saturday August 9, 1890, between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock p. m. Nominating convention Tuesday August 12th.

FOR PROTHONOTARY & CLERK OF THE COURTS.

J. H. MAIZE,
of Bloomsburg, Pa.

G. M. QUICK,
of Bloomsburg, Pa.

Hon. C. R. Buckalew delivered an eloquent discourse in commemoration of the late S. S. Cox, in the House of Representives at Washington on Saturday, April 19th.

The election of County Superintendent will be held next Tuesday, May 6th at one o'clock in the afternoon. All School directors should be on their guard and be careful to listen to nothing which may appear in a newspaper against any candidate just before election. All the eleventh hour articles are usually desperate ones. And where one candidate waits for the last issue of a paper to set forth his reasons for election, when his opponent can have no opportunity to answer them, all men should beware of them. Don't listen to eleventh hour articles. Don't help a man attack another when too late for defence or reply.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our regular correspondent.

Washington D. C. April 28, 1890.

The inujustice and absurdity of the McKinley tariff bill excited such general dissatisfaction that the Republicans are obliged to abandon it. It is conceded that the bill can never become a law, but the Republican majority in the House has so thoroughly committed it self that the bill is expected to pass the House by a strict party vote. In the meantime the republicans of the Senate Finance committee are at work on another bill as a substitute for the McKinley bill. They expect to report it to the Senate very soon after the McKinley bill passes the House.

This shows the impotence of Mr. McKinley's specious ortory, that captivates a careless crowd, to convince the business interests of the country of the propriety of a single idea he entertains on the subject of tariff.

The Republican joint caucus committe of the House and Senate have agreed upon the basis for the preparation of a silver bill. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase 4,500,000 ounces of free silver per month at the market price, not to exceed $1 for 371,25 grains of pure silver and issue Treasury notes in payment of the bullion. These notes shall be payable on demand in lawful money of the United States, and are recivable for all public dues. No greater or less amount of such notes shall be out standing at any time than the cost of the silver bullion then held in the Treasury, purchased by such notes. Upon demand of the holder of any such Treasury notes, the Secretary of the Treasury may, at his discretion, pay off such notes with silver bullion at its market price. The Secretary is also permitted to coin this bullion, shold it be necessary, for the redemption of these proposed Treasury notes, $78,000,000 held to redeem the circulation of banks will be restored to general circulation.

The investigating committee on interstate commerce charged with inquiry into the relations of railroads of the United States and Canada has concluded its labors. Chairman Cullom has completed a report which, with sundry remedial recommendations, awaits the approval of the committee. The report states that the good effects of the interestate commerce law are partly nullified by the competition of the Canadian lines. Uujust discrimination is made by Canada against U. S. Vessels in well and canal tools. in violation of the treaty of Washington. The Canadian railroads control lines operating over a large part of New England and Northern States. Canada owns a system of canals that cost $51,000,000. The inter- colonial railway has cost $47,000,000. To the Canadian Pacific railroad, which was begun as a government line Canada has $215,000,000 but the road cost only $167,000,000. The report states that it has been the inconcealed purpose of the Canadian government to secure a railroad across the continent of commanding influence which in connection with subsidized steam lines, would be able to dominate the transcontinental commerce of the United States and deflect from American railroads, vessels and seaports a large share of our commerce with countries of Asia, Australia and New Zealand. In this endeavor it has met with marked success and is progressing. Canada subsidizes two lines of steamers from Vancouver the westeran terminus of the Canadian R. R., with $425,000; and one line from St. Johns, N. B., its eastern terminus receives a sibsidy of $300,000.

The report refers to a conference of the commercial and industrial bodies of the Pacific coast held at San Francisco, July 1889. The report of the conference declares that with such special advantages the Canadian Pacific could afford to quote rates that must drive the American steamer lines out of the China trade, to the almost irreparable injury of San Francisco and predices general destruction for the larger part of the American steamer traffic on the Pacific ocean, unless some vigorous measures be adopted by the U. S. Government.

After Delamater,

SOME VERY PLAIN CHARGES ARE AIMED AT THE CRAWFORD SENATOR.

The Pottsville Republican has printed a lengthy article to identifiy Senator Delamater with the Standard Oil interests and the defeat of the Billingsley bill. The paper says that when the anti-discrimination bill, to which the party was committed, was taken up, Delemater conspired to defeat it. The article continues:

"After investigation it was found that twenty-five republican senators would stand by the bill. This was one short of the required majority. A member of the senate who was familiar with Delamater's connections suggested that perhaps there was some way to reach him through the Standard oil company. The recognized and known lobby representative of the Standard oil company was visited and told the situation. He said that Delamater was acting foolishly and that he would see him and fix the thing up. This representative of the Standard—who in connection with Delamater was in charge of the Standard's fight against the Billingsley bill—saw Delamater very early in the morning of March 17 at his room at the Lochiel house. A caucus of republican senators had been called to meet at 8 a. m. that day. The caucus was in session when it was announced that Delamater was out side and wanted to see three of the leaders. These gentlemen went into the hall and were told by Delamater that he would vote for the anti-discrimination bill provided they would make two promises.

The first thing that he demanded was that henceforth he should be regarded as one of the republican leaders in the senate, and should be consulted on all measures and questions of policy This was agreed to. The second demand was that the men to whom he talked should agree to oppose the Billingsley bill and help him defeat it. This was agreed to also. Mr. Delamater, radiant at the success of this piratical scheme, then came into the caucus, pledged himself to vote for the anti-discrimination bill and did vote for it later on the same day, deserting Watres and the men to whom he had pledged himself the night before.

"The agent of the Standard Oil company called on the republican senators, said he had seen Delamater and it was all right if they would be against the Billingsley bill.

"He was told of what had happened and approved Delamater's action.

"This is the story in brief. The Standard Oil company had influence enough to bring Delamater to terms when all other efforts failed.

"We challenge the denial of any of these statements. The facts can be had of any man who was a member of the senate in 1887."

Early Convention Wanted.

REASONS WHY THE DEMOCRATS SHOULD CHOOSE A STANDARD BEARER.

The democratic press is speaking out in favor of an early date for the state convention The York Gazette takes advanced ground on this subject. In its issue of Saturday in an able editorial it states its reasons for an early convention, as follows:

"There ought to be no difference among democrats as to the question whether there should be an early or a late convention. We observe that the subject is being considerably discussed by our democratic contemporaries through the state, and that the weight of opinion seems to be decidedly in favor of an early meeting.

"But what is, under the circumstances, early and what late? Any date before the republican convention is, in our opinion, early, and any date after that late. If the democratic convention shall be postponed until after Mr. Quay has called himself in convention and named his candidates, and made his platform, a month more or less will make very little difference in the situation, The only matter for us to consider is whether we shall attack the enemy or await his assault; whether we shall take the aggressive or stand upon the defensive. We have everything to gain by the former course and nothing to lose. If the democracy should come into state convention on the 23d day of June, express itself in decided terms upon tariff reform, ballot reform, trusts, state taxes, anti-discrimination and notorious abuses and corruptions in the state government, and nominate a ticket composed of men completely representative of these issues, Mr. Quay's job, when he should resolve himself into convention on the 25th of that month, would be found a very difficult one. He would have to take unequivocal positions upon each one of these vital questions. He could not, for instance, as last year, ignore trusts and ballot reform, or many other matters almost as important, merely because, as was said then, there was no feeling about them at the time of his convention, but if we now, in advance, resolve, as we certainly will do, in favor of an immediate adoption of the Australian system of voting, in order to secure free and honest elections, Mr. Quay cannot again escape on the plea that there is no such such issue. He must step up to the line and say one thing or the other. In like manner if the democrats, meeting in advance declare in favor of the repeal of the tariff duties, which protect the trusts and enable them to plunder the people, Mr. Quay must come out squarely either for the trusts or against them. If he goes against them—and the people will understand very well that there is no going against the trusts except through a repeal of the duties which enable them to monopolize our markets—he will lose at least some of the money with which he expects to buy the election. And if he decides in favor of the trusts, the eyes of thousands of honest republicans will be opened to the essential corruption of the party and vote against the boss-made ticket."

A Real Vindication.

Matthew S. Quay cannot obtain a vindication that will clear him of the charges under which he rests, by keeping up the old dodge of "dignified silence," nor by banqueting with respectable leaders of his party, nor by nominating his friend, and tool, Delamater, for Governor.

Not even the bluff of a libel suit, after the manner of Dudley, would help him with the country, though it might be accepted by some of the complaisant leaders of his party who frown upon rascality from the housetops while profiting willingly by its fruits in grabbing greedily their share of the spoils which it secures.

The Pittsburg Post, a near neighbor of Senator Quay, suggests a vindication that would vindicate in these words:

By securing a letter from Senator Don Cameron that he did not make good the Quay defalcation to the extent of $100,000 more or less; or a letter from ex-Attorney-General Wayne Mac Veach that as council he did not take measures to restore the stolen money to the State treasury and compel a certain measure of restitution from the thieves; or a letter from Mr. C. L. Magee that ——— did not confess the embezzlement to him at the Lochiel House in Harrisburg, with manifold threats of suicide thrown in; or that Mr. Magee did not at the instance of Senator Cameron overhaul the tacasury books and report to the Senate a deficit of $260,000 purloined by Quay and Walters—the latter a dupe—for purposes of stock gambling. All these gentleman are within easy hailing distance.

If the Senator shall take any of these steps towards a real vindication The World will not fail to let its readers know the fact.—World.

The Grangers' Interstate Exhibition at Williams' Grove August 25, 1890.

The following is published by request:

There is not even a shadow of truth about the statements that have recently been going the rounds of the newspapers that the Williams' Grove Grangers' Picnic is to be moved to Mt. Gretna. The men who are circulating these reports are not Patrons, as they represent themselves, but are now, as they have always been, the enemies of the Grange and intriguers against the farmers' organization.

There is no division amongst Patrons as to their great annual gathering at Williams' Grove.

Patrons who were present at the meeting of the National Grange, the State Granges of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and many other State meetings know that all these bodies, each by a practically unanimous vote, endorsed the Williams' Grove meeting and its management. And that this unanimous action throughout the United States has practically caused Williams' Grove to be the mecca of the Order. In view of this fact the Grangers' Interstate Picnic Exhibition will continue to convene at Williams' Grove from year to year, without regard to the meetings of any other organization until the Patrons of Husbandry themselves determine otherwise.

The meeting for 1890 will open on Monday, August 25th, and continue six days. Patrons desiring to occupy their tents a few days previous to the opening day—and many did this last year—will be so accommodated.

The most perfect railroad arrangements more satisfactory than those of any preceding year, have already been fully completed with railroad companies all over the country.

The exhibitors of machinery and farm implements will not fall short of that of any previous year.

The old exhibitors have already applied for all the space that will be vacated by the exhibitors who propose leaving Williams' Grove and going to Mt. Gretna, and new exhibitors are daily applying for space.

Very important and extensive improvements will be commenced at Williams' Grove as soon as the Spring opens, and whatever objectionable features or inconveniences there may have been in the past will be amended. In short, there can be no such thing as failure in any particular, in our Williams' Grove meeting, except from causes such as might occur through adverse elements of nature, which it is not possible for human agencies to provide against. Within the past week letters have been received from Col. J. H. Brigham, Worthy Master of the National Grange, the Worthy Secretary, Worthy Lecturer and other officers of the National Grange, and from the officers of twenty State Granges, commending the management of the Williams' Grove meeting, and pledging their unqualified support in the exertions being put forth to make the Williams' Grove meetings greater than ever heretofore.

GUAVA.

Aaron Hess. the young butcher, made a flying trip to New Columbus on business on Monday.

Jesse Hess has his barn raised and the rafters on. Howard Hess is doing the carpentering.

Thomas Hess is delivering Wm. Whitner & Son's railroad ties to Laubach's station.

Mazy Drescher of Delaware, is visiting Myrtle Hess, formerly of Delaware.

Louis Lowenberg, merchant tailor, from Bloomsburg, was up fishing for trout, and returned with a fine lot.

Some people who load cars with lumber have an idea that it is the agent's duty to tag their car for them. Shippers should tag their own cars, for the agent has no business whatever to bill or ship a car without name of consigner tag on car. If you want your cars shipped soon as loaded always tell your agent at once.

Bacon came nearly meeting with a serious accident on Monday night while he was returning home from his saw mill. He had a young colt hitched in the team, and just as they crossed the B. & S. R. R. at Cyrus Larish's the colt commenced to kick and got one foot over the tongue of the wagon, then they became frightened and began to run. Mr. Hess and his son both took hold of the lines and tried to stop them, but could not, so they ran them in the bank, upsetting the wagon, and Bacon fell between the wheel and hounds. Just then the wagon became uncoupled and thus saved Bacon's life. If the wagon had not parted it would have torn his head off. Bacon was bruised and scratched up very bad, and was hardly able to get home. It is hoped he is not hurt internally. After the team got free from its drivers it ran at a terrible rate from the bridge at Cyrus Larish's to Brad Long's, and in going through the bridge and making the turn the forepart of the wagon upset throwing the horses on their backs and holding them there. The men at Long's had the horses loose when Bacon and son arrived. The horses were not hurt very much.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. Dr. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.

Captain Courtney!

Says: While on the coast of Africa I had three men sick with malarial fever. I cured them with Sulphur Bitters. It is the greatest blood purifier I ever saw. I always keep them in my medicine chest.—Ship Natutilaus, Baltimore.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Peculiar Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence.

It is reported that I promised Mr. Johnston three years ago that if he would not then be a candidate for the office of County Superintendent I would not be a candidate for re-election this time. This report is false. Mr. Johnston was then a student at the Normal School. I never talked with him upon the subject; and I never promised any one not to be a candidate for re-election.

There was a great rush to get on the cars at the D. L. & W. depot at Danville last Saturday after the Odd Fellows' parade, and in the scramble several persons had their pockets picked. J. F. McHenry of Stillwater lost a pocket book containing about $20 in money, his railroad ticket, and a certificate of the State Treasurer for about $50, payable to W. L. McHenry, executor, being for balance of salary due the late Judge C. B. McHenry at the time of his death. Payment of the certificate was stopped by telegraph to the State Treasurer. The pocketbook was taken from Mr. McHenry's pants pocket, and he had no knowledge of its loss until the conductor came through the car and asked for his ticket, which was in his pocket book.

Mrs. Catherine Whitenight died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Michael Walter last Friday afternoon, aged about ninety years. Her maiden name was Long. She was left a widow by the death of her husband John Whitenight about twenty-seven years ago. For many years she lived alone in her dwelling on Third street, near Jefferson alley. She was one of the first settlers in the town and was the mother of four children. Two children survive her, Mrs. Michael Walter of this place, and Mr. Daniel Whitenight of Tamaqua. She was a life-long member of the Lutheran church. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, which were conducted by Rev. Auman in the absence of the Lutheran minister.

It is remarkable what methods are being employed by some of the city firms in order to make a "boom" in trade. One firm on Chestnut street in Philadelphia dealing in Gents Furnishing goods, has been advertising goods as sold at Receiver's sale, at 35c on the dollar—the entire stock to be sold as quickly as possible for benefit of creditors. Upon inspection it was found that this firm was offering some heavy weight goods at these prices while the entire stock was held at prices much higher than sold elsewhere. The mode of advertising was a ruse to catch the trade. We would caution our readers against being deceived by such people; and would add that general merchandise can be purchased of our home merchants at just as close a bargain as can be made in any city. Patronize your home merchant and you can depend upon getting full value for your money.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale of any medicine before the public. Any honest druggist will confirm this statement.

Extensive arrangements were made at Danville last Saturday for the entertainment of the Odd Fellows. Several thousand people came in on the trains, but the town would have been thronged if the weather had been pleasant. The parade took place on the side walk, owing to the muddy condition of the streets. Eleven bands were in line and many hundreds of Odd Fellows. Bloomsburg was not represented by any organization. At four o'clock addresses were made in the Opera House by Chief Burgess Gulick, Charles Chalfant, David Craft and others. The town was handsomely decorated, and arches spanned the principal streets.

Any person wishing to see a novel and interesting as well as a beautiful sight can do so by visiting the Centralia colliery while in operation at night. At the present time the colliery is working both day and night. During the day only the newly mined coal is run through the breaker, while the work of screening the culm bank is carried on at night. Two hundred and fifty men and boys are employed loading it into cars and taking it to the breaker, where it is cleaned and comes out in the form of rice or corn coal, ready for market. In the breaker about one hundred boys are busy at work in the chutes. Each boy is provided with a light, and they present a picture well worth seeing. As you watch the men at work on the banks, scattered here and there, each with a lighted lamp, the scene looks like so many natural gas jets burning. The work of screening the banks is rapidly progressing, and should Riley & Co., find the work profitable it will not be long before other companies will follow suit, and the numerous banks in the coal region will undergo a sifting out.—Ashland Local.

A Certificate.

I hereby certify that J. S. Grimes three years ago called to see me several times during his campaign for the office of County Superintendent and said to me some two or three times that if elected that time he (Grimes) would not ask for the office for the fourth term. That Mr. Barkley and Mr. Snyder had served in the office three terms each, that he (Grimes) would like to have the office for three terms also. I am satisfied that a number of the school directors of the county will certify to the same.

N. P. MOORE.

Buckhorn, Apr. 29, 1890.

The Bloomsburg correspondent of the News Dealer thus writes of one of our citizens:

William Rabb, one of the most active and enterprising citizens of Bloomsburg, after an absence of several years from the board of Town Council, was again returned to that body of city fathers at the late election by a handsome vote of his fellow citizens. All taxpayers and property holders would feel satisfied when they could read over the list of councilmen and read the name of Rabb among the number. The other morning we overheard a conversation going on between two democrats on Main Street; the one was strongly urging the name of Mr. Rabb for County commissioner. It struck us favorably. He is well qualified, never has been an office seeker, is a heavy taxpayer, and always has been identified with the labor and industrial interests of the town and county.

The Public Schools of Bloomsburg will close the present term on Monday, May 5, in all the buildings commencing at two o'clock. The High School and grammar school will hold their exercises in the large room of the High School in the new building. With other interesting exercises the following will be given:

Opening Address, Eugene Carpenter
Recitation, Leak in the Dyke, Jesse Ent
Famous Women, By ten Girls
Humorous Exercises, Troy Hollow Lyceum
Recitation, Papa's Letter, Kate Peifer
Drama, Cinderella.
Farce, Lucy's Old Man.
Recitation, Grace Laubach
Dialogue, Trapped.
Essay, Flight of Time, Helen Carpenter
Closing, Address.

Music with which these exercises will be interspersed will be furnished by the school. Closing exercises will also be held in the Fifth street schools, also the Third street building at which interesting exercises will be given. The public and parents are invited to be present.

Their Fourteenth Birthday.

This week A. C. Yates & Co. celebrate the Fourteenth Anniversary of the establishment of their prosperous business in the Ledger Building, Sixth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia. As is customary on these occasions the Ledger Building is gaily decorated, and the firm receives its friends and visitors with a royal welcome.

Strolling through the spacious building one sees five floors filled with clothing for Men, Boys and Children; and gets an idea of the immense business done by this popular house. An entire floor of the Ledger Building is required for the Boys' and Childrens' Department, which is the largest and most complete in Philadelphia.

The great and thriving business of this firm is the result of offering its customers reliable clothing at the lowest prices. All the clothing they sell is manufactured in their own workshops, and wherever the name of A. C. Yates & Co. is known, it stands for good, honest clothing.

This season they display a superb assortment for Men, Boys and Children, and one marvels at the cheapness of such neat, stylish clothing.

Democratic Club.

A meeting of the Democratic Club of Bloomsburg was held in Dentler's Hall on Friday evening last, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization.

The committee on constitution and by-laws made a report which was adopted. There are two classes of members, contributing and non-contributing. The latter have all the privileges of membership but voting. This arrangement was made so that every democrat in town can join the club, whether he can afford to pay anything towards the support of the club or not. The object is to keep up a permanent organization, and if the movement meets with proper support, to maintain a club room where the daily papers and other literature will be kept on file, and where democrats can meet and discuss the issues of the day. The following officers were elected: President, John R. Townsend, Vice President, Geo. E. Elwell, Secretary, R. R. Little, Treasurer, Grant Herring, Executive Committee, C. H. Campbell, G. W. Sterner, and W. F. Bodine. A committee on enrollment was appointed consisting of F. D. Dentler, D. R. Coffman and W. F. Bodine.

When a sufficient number of names have been obtained a meeting will be called by the President.

County Superintendent.

WHY MR. GRIMES OUGHT TO BE RETAINED.

WHAT THE LATE SUPERINTENDENT HIGBEE SAID.

KEEP GOOD MEN IN OFFICE UNTIL BETTER ARE TO BE HAD. LONG TERMS OF OTHER SUPERINTENDENTS. INTERESTING FIGURES.

The School Directors of Columbia county will meet in convention in Bloomsburg on Tuesday, May 6th, for the purpose of electing a county Superintendent for the succeeding three years.

The present incumbent, Mr. J. S. Grimes, is a candidate for re-election. As is natural, a fair salary being attached to the position, there is an aspirant for it, and Mr. Grimes meets with some opposition. It is so weak, however, as to hardly amount to an opposition.

The arguments used against his re-election indicate most clearly there is no just reason for his defeat. There is but one:

He has had it long enough. Give somebody else a chance (at the salary.)

As to this: It may well be asked. Who is to be the judge as to whether he has held the position long enough or not? Certainly not the person who is seeking the place for the money there is in it. Most assuredly not the individual who has an ax to grind and who thinks he may subserve his own personal interests by securing the election of this or that man. Neither should it be the irresponsible and unprincipled demagogue whose personal prejudices alone prompt him to exert his influence to prevent the election of a gentleman, who, through nine years of efficient services has given such complete satisfaction that none, not even his bitterest personal enemies, nor those who are most vigorously opposed to him in the present canvass, dare utter a word against his fitness for the position. This question of fitness has not entered the contest at all except when it has been to speak words of praise for Mr. Grimes and his administration of the school affairs of the county.

The late Dr. E. E. Higbee, upon hearing the false report that the Department of Public Instruction had endorsed the opinion that when a Superintendent has served for three successive terms he should be retired and a new man elected, said. "This Department never made such a silly announcement or declaration. Efficient Superintendents should be kept in office unless more efficient ones are to be had."

This would seem to indicate, beyond question, that in the opinion of the State Department of Public Instruction, Mr. Grimes has not held the position of County Superintendent long enough.

Precedent is a pretty safe criterion. A brief examination of the record shows:

That Dr. Wickersham held the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction from 1866 to 1881, four terms or sixteen years.

Dr. Higbee served eight years and would have served 12 years or more but for his death.

That Mr. Seely has served twenty-four as Superintendent of Adams county and is still in office.

That Mr. Shaub of Lancaster, served over eleven years and declined a re-election to become Principal of the Millersburg State Normal School.

That Mr. Rodenhorn of Lebanon, served 15 years, up to the event of his recent death.

That Mr. Knauss of Lehigh, has served 18 years, is still in office and candidate for re-election with every prospect of success.

That Mr. Weiss of Schuylkill, has served three terms, is a candidate for re-election and has no opposition.

That J. M. Caughlin of Luzerne county, has served four terms and is now a candidate for re-election.

That Mr. Woodruff, of Bucks county, served four terms as Superintendent of Bucks County and was strongly urged to be a candidate for another term. That previous to this he served nine years as Superintendent of Chester county and declined a re-election, in a circular sent to each Director six months before the time for the convention to meet. With some modification we have appropriated the foregoing part of this article and adapted it to our purposes because we believe it meets the case at issue. Now to come right home. Chas. G. Barkley Esq., was serving in his third term when he was elected Principal of the Bloomsbug State Normal School, and afterwards resigned the latter to pursue his life work, the law. Wm. H. Snyder, of Columbia county, served three terms and would have asked for the fourth had it not been for the fact that he promised not to be a candidate for re-election. The promise is evident from the following letter:—

Apr. 15, 1881.

MR. EDITOR,

DEAR SIR;

Being in receipt of a number of letters soliciting me to be a candidate for re-election of County Superintendent at the next election, which I cannot conscientiously be, having said three years ago that I would not be a candidate. I thank the solicitors for their kindness and hope they will stand by my successor as they stood by me in behalf of the public schools.

Yours respectfully,
WM. H. SNYDER.

Precedent would seem to indicate that Mr. Grimes has not held the position of County Superintendent long enough.

Mr. Grimes has been an efficient Superintendent. All admit this. The one seeking his place must admit it. His friends must admit it. The period in the history of our public schools, since they have been under his supervision, is a period of unusual growth and advancement in every department.

During Superintendent Grimes' administration of school affairs, the County Institutes have been a marked success and have been recognized by all as a most potent means of advancement. It has also been frequently remarked at these annual gatherings that the general appearance of the teacher has improved, showing conclusively that the selection and commissioning of teachers has been not a matter of figures and form, but a reality, reflecting credit on the careful and painstaking efforts of the Superintendent. To show the progress of the County Institute we shall quote from Mr. Grimes' last year's report to the Department of Public Instruction. "The entire expenses, janitor, hall, lecturers, instructors, etc., of my predecessor's last Institute were one-hundred and seventy-eight dollars and fifty cents. The receipts from the evening lectures of my first Institute were sixty dollars and seventy-five cents. The receipts of the last Institute were ten hundred and twenty-eight dollars and seventy cents.

Great interest has been manifested in educational meetings and they have accomplished much good, not only in the improved methods presented, but in creating more interest and enthusiasm in educational work. The schools have improved fully as much as the institute."

Nearly every Saturday from the first of December until the close of the schools in the rural districts, he is engaged in holding well attended local institutes.

It is an appreciable fact that Mr. Grimes attends the leading educational meetings throughout the state, and thereby makes himself familiar with the institute lecturers and instructors. Hence his ability to suit the intelligence of those that patronize the County Institute. Mr. Grimes has shown marked ability and tact in securing the co-operation of the teachers and in uniting the educational forces of the country to further the interests of education. Superintendent Grimes is an untiring worker and as such has been recognized. He possesses great skill in the way of uniting discordant elements and securing united effort upon the part of all. The real power of a good Superintendent is not so much in what he can do himself as in what he can get others to do. Supt. Grimes excels in this direction.

The real service which the Supt. has rendered our county does not show itself in an array of figures as shown in statistics, nor can it be fairly shown in the mere statement of facts. He has carried with him an influence for good that has touched the lives of the children; an honest endeavor to do right which has secured the confidence of our people, elevated the standard of educational works and made teaching more honorable. He has touched every educational factor. The interest of the people has been greatly increased; the co-operation of directors has been more completely secured; the scholarship of teachers has been improved and their professional knowledge increased; and more efficient work has been accomplished by the children.

In a copy of the New England Journal of Education of Jan. 5th, 1888, Dr. A. E. Winship, editor said the following: Mr. Grimes is a man of rare skill in selecting teachers, a good judge of human nature an effective public speaker, an industrious school visitor, and an energetic institute organizer and director.

In the editorial department of the Philadelphia Times of May '87 is a paragraph condemming rotation in the office of Co. Supt. It runs as follows: "The fact that Supt. Cottingham of Easton, has been in office for a third of a century and is a better Superintendent of Schools than he ever was before is only one of the many that give the lie to the claim that the public interest is served by sacrificing experience for the sake of rotation."

There are some positions the duties of which the duties are purely clerical. As to these, rotation is perhaps, a good thing. But the County school superintendencies are in another class and in filling them experience should always be a first consideration. The Superintendency is not a partisan office. There is no delegate election, followed by a nominating convention.

Then again Superintendent Grimes is not a novice in school work. He has not only had successful experience as a teacher in the ungraded schools of this Co., but also in the graded schools. He has acted as Principal of the graded schools at Lime Ridge, Mifflinville, Buckhorn, Ebervale, Luz. Co., and at Catawissa for two terms.

He brought with him to the Superintendency a valuable experience and has added to it incessantly during the past nine years.

Such a Superintendent held the position long enough? The lamented State Superintendent Higbee says "No".

Precedent says "No." All the facts say "No." The School Directors of Columbia Co., on Tuesday, May 6th, 1890, will say "No," emphatically "No."

A Senator's Opinion.

HON. EUGENE HALE, United States Senator from Maine, was a life-long friend and companion of Dr. Wm. H. Brown. He employed him professionally; had opportunities of observing him at his practice, and considered him one of the ablest men of his time. Mr. Hale had occasion, after the death of Dr. Brown, to use his preparation of Sarsaparilla, and sent a message from Washington requesting that a case of the great family medicine be forwarded, which was complied with at once. In due season Mr. Hale acknowledged the receipt of the Brown's Sarsaparilla, and at the same time said:

I made great confidence in the late Dr. Brown's medical sagacity and skill
Yours very truly

If this preparation was only a common mixture, we should not call your attention to it, but it is unlike any other ever formulated; has been in use by eminent physicians for years, and is to-day the best remedy, in every sense of the word, in the world, for all forms of kidney, liver and blood diseases, and never fails to cure. Now is the time to cleanse the system, purify the blood, revive the liver and give tone and elasticity to the whole body. You can do it with a bottle of

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, April 28, 1890.

The Dress Goods sensation. French stuffs, this season's make, and at an average of half regular prices.

They've set the dry goods men talking; they've set merchants buying to sell again; they've crowded some of the longest counters in the store with delighted customers.

Take these Mohair Brilliantines. Some striped or plaided by dainty stripings of silk; some rich with Jacquard figures. All of them in choice Spring shades and every yard a good square $1 worth, as such goods go. The price is fifty cents.

Then here are Striped French Serges in all the new colorings. Imported to sell at 50c. As good or better stuff than you're likely to come across in any store at 50c. The price is twenty five cents.

These are the two price extremes—30, 35 and 40c between. About 300 styles and colorings all told.

All the widths and styles in the Black Hemstitched Grenadines are plenty once more— 1½, 2, 2½, 3, and 4 inches. $1.75.

More than one hundred fresh styles of Linen Lawns at the counter now. Handsomer than ever—if possible. 20, 25, 30, and 40c.

What we call Linen is Linen. Every time. And by bringing the goods in big lots straight from the looms to you we can make prices as little as those of the half-cotton deceptions the market is over flowing with.

For instance, these old time Barnsley Table Linens—as good and honest now as in your grandmother's days—they're the regular $1.25 quality, but the prices is 80 cents.

Or this German Table Linen, extra heavy, free from starch or sizing, at 65 cents; we hear of nothing at even 85c that is as good.

We told you the other day of heavy Damask Sets (cloth and napkins) at $3.75 and $5. Every word still holds good. Marvels of cheapness.

That's the way in every class of Linens, from the daintiest Handkerchief to the heaviest Carpet Covering; qualities are away up and prices away down

For instance:

If these Women's Convent-Hemstitched, Handkerceiefs were laundred they'd equal any we knew of at twice the prices:

12½c each, $1.50 a dozen.
15c each, $1.80, a dozen.
25c each, $2.50 a dozen.

Here are two more, both for women: (1) Plain white hemstitched, printed border, embroidered corners, ten cents (2) Plain white, hemstitched, embroidered initial, ten cents.

Both are of pure linen. We don't know their match outside under 15 cents.

Men's and Boys' Clothing is going more as we mean it to. Better kinds, lower prices: the push is for both all the time. See the natty Sailor Suits for Boys, or the Harris Cassimere Overcoats for Men. They stand for all.

THE MERITS OF STEAM ROLLERS.

The Opinions at Which a Practical Observer Has Arrived.

In response to a query regarding the relative merits of steam and horse rollers in the building and rebuilding of country roads, Mr. H. M. Coombs, of Cranston, R. I., recently sent this letter to Mr. W. M. P. Bowen:

"DEAR SIR—In replying to your letter I must begin by saying that my knowledge of roads, like my experience, is very limited, not having given much thought to the subject, beyond a natural love of good roads. That love was early strengthened by my having lived for a number of years in the then town of Waltham, Mass., where, as you must know, poor roads are the exception—especially so within ten miles of Boston. Coming from there to Rhode Island you may be able, possibly, to estimate my opinion of the public roads or highways of the towns in this state as they were twenty-five years ago. But you want my opinion as to the relative merits of steam and horse rollers, for building or rebuilding country roads. Of course, if no other can be had, a horse roller is better than no roller, but there is no more comparison between them than between the old Franklin printing press and that from which comes the daily papers today.

"My short experience on Cranston street, during the past summer, taught me that in point of economy the steam roller was, at first cost, i. e., the daily cost of running it, more than 75 per cent. cheaper than the Morse machine. If the quality of work is taken into the account 150 per cent. would be nearer the correct estimate. We find after five months of wear—and rather trying weather for roads these five months have been—that those sections of the road rolled with steam apparatus are as firm and smooth as when first completed, while the parts rolled with the horse roller are badly rutted, muddy when wet and exceedingly rough when frozen.

"These facts are patent to any one who may have occasion to pass over Cranston road from the city line to a point near the residence of Dr. Simmons, on that street. From the city line to the Arlington Hay and Grain company's store, the work was done by the steam roller. From the car barn to the point above named, the west side of the road was rolled by steam, the east side by horse roller. Let the public judge between them.

"In closing, permit me to suggest that with the ample supply of gravel possessed by the town of Cranston, at least, and a good steam roller, it is certain that as good roads can be made as any in the country, and at a comparatively low cost over that of the old faulty, and in the end expensive, way.

"I sincerely hope that the town of Cranston will act, as it seems to me it should, in accordance with good judgment, as to the merits of the steam over the horse method, and order a fifteen ton steam perfected roller at its financial meeting in April next."

What a New York Town Is Doing.

The town of Sweden, Monroe county, N. Y., owns a stone crusher and hires men by the day to run it. Last spring the town appropriated $2,000 to crush stone, and, to make a rough guess, I think the $3,000 crushed stone enough to make about five miles of perfect road. They set the crusher near stone, which is donated; the town pays for hauling stone to the crusher, and pays for crushing it; the road districts go and get the crushed stone and lay it. Each road district and individual is greedy to get the stone, and I think that money thus expended goes ten times as far as any other in making highways.

In the last three years the town of Sweden has made about twenty miles of road, so good that a team can haul as large a load in the open, muddy winter as in summer. The land is clay, and the roads not laid with stone or gravel are simply fearful. It would pay a person to go a long distance to see what has been done to the roads in the town of Sweden. When the roads are all made with crushed stone and the fences removed from the bleak places where the snow drifts, the millennium will not be far away.—Exchange.

Man, Not the Lord, Responsible for Mud.

At a prayer meeting held in the First Methodist church in Portland, Ore., recently a lady expressed her inability to see why certain things were thus and so, and was especially severe upon Providence for inflicting so much mud upon mankind. Said she: "No matter how much I may clean, my house is continually tracked with mud; my porches are kept in a filthy condition, and it's nothing but mud, mud, mud." When the speaker finished the pastor arose and remarked: "I cannot conclude this meeting without saying that God is not responsible for the mud; in fact, if there were no men there would be no mud. Moreover, in Portland, Ore., where it rains about six months in the year, there is no mud, for the simple reason that they have men there who know enough to make roads."—Exchange.

Unused Advantages in Missouri.

In 1880 or 1881 the board of curators of the Missouri State university passed a resolution providing that any county surveyor and ex-officio roads and bridge commissioner who felt not fully prepared for his position might take the engineering course in the university free of tuition. That the generosity of the board is not taken advantage of, says a St. Louis correspondent, is evidence of the indifference of the people at large toward the improvement of highways. The ground of this indifference is simply ignorance of the advantages of improved roads. When the taxpaying citizens can see the profitableness of the investment, Missouri will, as in other things, move to the front in the development of her internal commerce.

To keep well built roads in good repair, under intelligent supervision and single authority, is not costly. A poor road is costly under all circumstances.—Governor H. W. Ladd, of Rhode Island.

Many Lives, Histories, or Biographies of the late Jefferson Davis, purporting to have been written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis, are being advertised throughout the country. The only genuine work of the kind written by Mrs. Jefferson Davis is that to be published by BELFORD COMPANY, 18-22 East 18th Street, New York, entitled, "Jefferson Davis, Ex-President of the Confederate States: A Memoir, by His Wife." All other works claiming the authorship of Mrs. Jefferson Davis must necessarily be injurious to her personally and pecuniarily. The book is sold by subscription, and territory is being rapidly assigned. The work promises to be one of the most popular ever published, and those desiring to canvass for it should apply at once to the publishers, who will furnish circulars and information.

Danger in Steam Pipes.

The Philadelphia Star says: "It has been stated that wood work could not be set on fire from steam pipes charged with steam but on 1st Saturday a week the wood work of a mill in this city was ignited from the steam pipe over three hundred feet from the boiler. The wood work was old. Unless the steam pipes are isolated from the wood work fire is likely to occur at any time." As there is common impression that steam pipes will not set fire to the wood, the above note may suggest that safety is a matter of carefulness in all things.

Citizen—So you think of locating here?
Physician—Yes. I thought some of practicing among you.
Citizen—See here, young man, there's a good opening here for a man as understands his biz, but we don't want no practicing, or experimenting—doctoring's what we want!

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present, alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent or overbusy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his "practice" until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of protracted misery.

It's the only medicine for the weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements peculiar to women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) paid for it will be promptly refunded.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

Defective Sidewalks.

THE OWNERS OF THE PROPERTY RESPONSIBLE FOR INJURIES.

A recent decision of the supreme court is of interest to every property holder in a borough or city. Heretofore the town or corporation has been held liable for damages resulting from defective sidewalks. The decision of the supreme court makes the property holders directly responsible. In the case in question a property owner in Brookville, Jefferson county, had been notified in the fall by the borough authorities to repair his sidewalk. He agreed to repair it so that it would be safe during the winter and in the spring to lay a new stone walk. He did make a few repairs, but a hole was left in which a lady caught her foot, sustaining injuries for which she recovered damages from the borough to the extent of $5,000. In contesting the claim the borough gave notice to the property owner to come into court and join it in the defense, but he neglected to do so. After judgment had been recovered against the borough, the authorities brought suit against the property owner. In the court of common pleas the borough was beaten, but the supreme court reversed the court below and directed judgment against the property owner for the full amount of the judgment and costs.

Bartholomew Columbus.

Christopher Columbus, being rejected and disheartened by the ill-treatment which he received from Portugal, sent his brother, Bartholomew to England. This brother, the Great Admiral had carefully instructed in map making and cosmography generally.

Bartholomew entered heartily in the plans of his brother. Accordingly he set out for England, but was met on the way by some corsairs who plundered him of all he had, and then made him serve as a slave. After laboring thus for three years, he obtained his freedom. At last he arrived in England a foreigner, strange, and destitute of every thing. But falling back to his trade, making maps, he was enabled in a few years to do such work as gave him public distinction, and finally, he was presented to King VII. The King promised the necessary aid, but some events caused a delay which was fatal to the glory of England, and brought honor to Castile.

This brother was in England in the year 1488. As is shown by a subscription on a map presented to the King at the time aid was promised. No more is known of Bartholomew.

Can Scirrhus Cancer be Cured.

This is a hard question to answer. Swift's Specific has cured thousands of cases of Skin Cancer, and there have been many cases of Scirrhus Cancer reported cured by it. We do say that S. S. S. is worth a trial in any case of cancer. We append a statement from Miss Green, of Tallapoosa, Ga.:

In 1884 I had a small lump in my left breast, which proved to be a cancer The first remedy I tried was to have it burned off. This did not cure it, for shortly afterwards it broke out again in a much worse form. I then consulted our druggist, who advised me to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) and after taking about one dozen bottles, was completly cured, and my general health was greatly improved. This has been over six years ago, and my cancer has never appeared since, nor has it troubled me in any way. I can cheerfully recomend Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) to any one suffering with cancer.

Sarcastic Oscar Wilde.

At a gathering in London not long ago, Oscar Wilde was approached by a small man who slapped him familiarly on the back and exclaimed:

"Hollos, Oscar, d'you know every time I see you you get fatter and fatter."

"I don't know who you are," replied the apostle of aetheticism, looking down from his advantage of several inches, "but every time I see you you get ruder and ruder."

Needless to say the too-friendly acquaintance vanished abashed into the crowd.

"Can you tell me," asked Oscar, turning to a lady with whom he had just been talking, "who that dreadful little cad is?"

"That, Mr. Wilde," returned the lady with a frigid glance and haughty manner, "is my husband."

"Is it, indeed," replied he with an agreeable smile, and holding his ground. "Then what a pity you don't teach him better manners."—From a Foreign Letter.

"What is the matter, Alice? You look worried."

"I am. It's too mean for anything. These roses have just come with a card! 'Wear these for Jack,' and I don't know weather they are from the Jack I hate or the one I like. It's too horrid."—[Bazar.]

Pater familias—My boy must have amusement.

Friend—What are you going to do for him?

Pater Familias—Send him to college—[Chicago Times.]

On a recent trial in Wales to test the validity of a will it was proved that in 1869 the testator became impaired in intellect to such an extent that he went to the postoffice with a postage stamp on his forehead and requested to be sent to a place he mentioned.

The Proposed Ocean Patrol.

The World has originated a simple and practical method of patrolling the steamer routes between this country and Europe, so as to rescue shipwrecked crews and prevent any dangers from such accidents as that which befell the City of Paris. The route is divided into squares, or stations, and a Government steamer is to cruise over each of these constantly, so that a ship in distress will have help at hand within a few miles or hours. The World proposes that the United States shall furnish two of these relief vessels, England two, and Italy, France, Germany and Sweeden one each. This seems a fair division. The vessels will cost nothing, as old war ships may be utilized. The officers and crew will gain splendid training. The profits from salvage will more than cover the running expenses. Above all, the steamer lines will be patrolled as safely as Broadway, and to have nations united in this service to humanity will be a powerful guarantee of peace.—N. Y. Metropolis.

Ben Butler's Wealth.

Any list of Boston millionaires would be incomplete without the name of Benjamin F. Butler, who is estimated by close observers to be worth between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. He is really more identified with Boston than with Lowell, though he has his magnificent residence in the latter place. His law offices in Ashburton place, Boston, are the finest in the city, and there he may be found early and late when not in court or traveling, for, unlike most of the lawyers of Boston, he has a large practice in New York, Washington and Chicago, where he has copartnership offices. His law practice is worth $100,000 a year. He lives well, is very generous and his famous yacht America is one of the finest. The bulk of his fortune has been made by investing in manufactories.—Boston letter to Richmond Times.

Give Water to Infants.

A distinguished children's doctor believes, from his practice, that infants generally, whether brought up at the breast or artificially, are not supplied with sufficient water, the fluid portion of their food being quickly taken up and leaving the solid too thick to be easily digested. In warm, dry weather, healthy babies will take water every hour with advantage, and their frequent fretfulness and rise of temperature are often directly due to their not having it. A free supply of water and restricting the frequency of nursing have been found at the nursery to be the most effectual check in cases of incipient fever, a diminished rate of mortality and marked reduction in the number of gastric and intestinal complaints being attributed to this cause. In teeth-cutting, water sooths the gums, and frequently stops the fretting and restlessness universal in children at this period.

COLUMBIAN SUPPLEMENT.

Bloomsburg, Pa., Friday, May 2, 1890.

TREASURER'S SALE OF UNSEATED LANDS

IN COLUMBIA COUNTY, PENNA.

By virtue of Sundry Acts of the general Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, relating to the sale of Seated and Unseated lands in the County, of Columbia, etc., for taxes due and unpaid, I will offer to public sale in the Court House, in the town of Bloomsburg, on at 10 o'clock a. m. the following described pieces of land, or such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of taxes due and unpaid against the same, and continue the same from day to day as the same may be found necessary.

TERMS OF SALE.

The amount of taxes and costs must be paid when the land is struck off, or the sale may be void and the property put up and resold.
